FUMÉ BLANC

“Dry Creek Fumé Blanc has been one of my favorite California white wines in recent vintages. It’s a perfect hot weather wine. Very refreshing as an aperitif and great with fresh seafood, pasta salads or any light cuisine.” — ERIC HEMER - Master Sommelier

SUMMER 2007

WINEMAKING

Recognized for its Fumé Blanc and Zinfandel, Dry Creek Vineyard was founded in 1972 by David S. Stare. Before his arrival, the Dry Creek Valley was little more than a handful of family farms but the valley now boasts nearly 50 different wineries. Today this second-generation family winery is under the helm of the husband-and-wife team of Don Wallace and Kim Stare Wallace.

“A continuing classic.”

TASTING NOTES

A wonderful bouquet of zesty citrus, grapefruit and lemongrass and peppery spice notes, creating a sense of depth and balance, with a crisp finish that incorporates hints of gooseberry and a touch of minerality.
